MAURICE DIGGINS)

DEFENDANT’S EMERGENCY MOTION TO RESTORE MEDICATION
DURING PRETRIAL DETENTION AND INCORPORATED MEMORANDUM

NOW COMES Maurice Diggins, by counsel and asks the court to direct the Marshal to provide Diggins with necessary medication during the period of pre-trial detention. Specifically, Diggins asks that his medically assisted opiate addiction medication, suboxone, be restored. In support of this motion, counsel states the following:

1. Maurice Diggins is in custody awaiting trial. (ECF # 33). Before his arrest on the pending charges, Diggins participated in a multi-year medically assisted opiate addiction treatment which included daily ingestion of the prescription medication suboxone.¹ Suboxone contains a combination of buprenorphine and naloxone and is a federally regulated medication. He is being housed at the Strafford County Jail in Dover, New Hampshire. Until ¹The most widely used form of buprenorphine is a combination of this drug with the short-acting opiate antagonist naloxone, which has little effect when absorbed under the tongue but neutralizes the effect of injected opiates. It's sold under the name Suboxone.

Suboxone works by tightly binding to the same receptors in the brain as other opiates, such as heroin, morphine, and oxycodone. By doing so, it blunts intoxication with these other drugs, it prevents cravings, and it allows many people to transition back from a life of addiction to a life of relative normalcy and safety.

recently Diggins was receiving suboxone from the medical department at the jail. The pill is dissolved under the tongue of the recipient. On or about January 1, 2020 Diggins was accused of “misusing” his medication. It was claimed he did not allow the pill to fully dissolve. Yet an immediate search of Diggins did not locate any pill or partially dissolved pill. Diggins denied (and denies) misusing the medication. Since this “incident” the jail has stopped providing Diggins with suboxone and has not provided any alternative or replacement medication.

2. Counsel has been working with Dean Knightly, Supervisory Deputy U.S. Marshal to try and have Diggins’ medication restored. Deputy Knightly has been very responsive and been trying to coordinate with the medical facility at the Strafford Jail. Unfortunately, to date we have not been successful in have Diggins’ medication restored.

3. Suboxone is addictive and a federal scheduled medication. Stopping the medication results in withdraw. Lacking the medication he was receiving, Diggins says he is undergoing withdrawal.² He says he is sick and unable to focus. He says he is not able to confer with counsel about the case related facts and is unable to prepare for trial. He fears the trial date will be upon him and he will not be ready for trial. He fears counsel will not have the benefit of Diggins’ knowledge of the events at issue. He fears counsel will not have the benefit of Diggins’ knowledge and assistance in trial preparation, particularly regarding witnesses and the events at issue. Diggins’ is of the opinion that lacking his medication, both he and counsel will be “unprepared” for trial.

4. Counsel has brought this issue to the attention of AUSA Sheila Sawyer. Counsel and AUSA Sawyer are both available the afternoons of January 13 or 14 for a short hearing on this matter. After the 14th, both counsel are out of town for some time. Pending is the motion for specific assignment of the trial for jury selection March 2 and trial March 3. The case involves multiple witnesses including out of state witnesses as well as a Codefendant, Dusty Leo. It is important to all involved that Mr. Diggins’ medical condition be addressed and the parties be able to continue trial preparation and know the trial date as subpoenas and travel arraignments are made.

Wherefore Defendant requests following a hearing this Motion be GRANTED, and the court direct the Strafford County Jail via the Marshal to restore medically assisted opiate addiction medication to Diggins.
